Strikers to vote on pact

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Negotiators for American Steel Foundries and its 211 steelworkers reached agreement on a new contract Monday morning, and the members of United Steelworkers Local 1063 will vote on the contract Thursday.

Officials for the company and the union declined to discuss details of the proposed agreement, which would also affect American Steel's three other midwestern plants.

Jerry Gura, a spokesman for the company, and Paul Aldridge, a union spokesman, confirmed that an agreement had been reached.

The main sticking point in negotiations had been health insurance, the union said previously. The company had proposed that, retroactive to Jan. 1, the union workers and retirees would share increases in insurance.

Workers and retirees would also have had higher deductible costs, and out-of-pocket expenses would have been raised, with no out-of-pocket expense ceiling. The union contended such increases would eat up retirees' pensions.

The local went on strike April 1.

ASF electrical workers and Machinists reached agreements on new contracts several weeks ago.

Patternmakers have agreed to continuing working under the terms of their old contract, which expired Tuesday. Negotiations are to begin soon.

Man charged in local rape

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Ricky L. Hotz, 36, of the 2200 block of Miracle Avenue was arrested Sunday and charged with aggravated sexual assault in connection with an April 23 assault in Granite City.

Shortly after 3 a.m. that day, Hotz allegedly stopped by the home of a woman whose sister he had been dating and told her his car had broken down.

Once inside the house, he allegedly held a small kitchen knife to the woman's throat, forcing her to engage in two sex acts and attempting a third. The woman's child was sleeping in another room.

About a half hour later, the woman got free and ran, naked, to a neighbor's house for help. Hotz allegedly followed her and begged her not to knock on the neighbor's door and promised to leave, so she didn't knock.

After he left, she called police from her home and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was treated.

A warrant was subsequently issued and Hotz was spotted driving near Kirkpatrick Homes at about 10:30 p.m. Sunday. He was stopped and arrested on Maryville Road at Saratoga Street.

He was being held Monday in the Granite City Jail on $150,000 bond, awaiting transfer to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

At least two banks bid on savings, loan

By Ed Gurney
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — Magna Group of Belleville and United Missouri Bank of Kansas City are among those who submitted bids Thursday on the purchase of Madison County Federal Savings and Loan.

Both firms want to purchase Madison County Federal's headquarters in Granite City and its branches in Collinsville, Edwardsville and Troy.

Bids on Madison County Federal and four other Illinois savings and loans were due Thursday. The Resolution Trust Corp., a federal agency set up to supervise troubled thrifts, is seeking to sell the institutions.

"We are still in the process of evaluating bids," Dick Fischman of the RTC said Friday.

He declined to comment on the number of bids received or the names of the bidders. Fischman said no announcements will be made until each savings and loan is about to be transferred to a new owner.

Spokesmen for Magna and United Missouri acknowledged their firms submitted bids.

Peter Genovesi of United Missouri Bank said it will probably be several weeks before the fate of the bids is known.

United Missouri Bank owns UMB First National Bank of Collinsville, which has branches in Maryville, Caseyville and Swansea.

Magna Group Vice President George Klann said, "We're always interested in growth by expansion and acquisition if we think it is the right time. There haven't been that many opportunities for routine mergers and acquisitions."

Magna has banks in Belleville, Granite City, Wood River, Freeburg, Mascoutah, Marietta, Decatur, Springfield, Lincoln and Bloomington.

Magna acquired First National Bank of Granite City and First National Bank of Wood River a couple of years ago, Klann said.

Magna also submitted bids on the purchase of Home Federal Savings and Loan of Centralia and First Federal Savings and Loan of East Alton.

Klann said Magna Bank has the most

Paper wins 7 awards

The Granite City Press-Record/Journal fared well in recent competition of the Southern Illinois Editorial Association.

Competing in the category of large weeklies, the paper won seven awards — first place for editorial page and overall makeup; second place for general excellence; and honorable mention for local news coverage, use of photography, sports coverage and advertising.

"The results show what a paper can do with a small, but hard-working staff," said Managing Editor Dennis Grubaugh. "Awards like these are proof that the newspaper is serving its community well."

Police pursue abduction case

GRANITE CITY — A bizarre incident involving a local woman who was allegedly battered and forcibly restrained was reported to police over the weekend.

Felony charges of aggravated battery and unlawful restraint are being sought, police said.

The victim went to police headquarters to make a report shortly after 2 a.m. Saturday after she jumped from a car at a traffic signal light on Illinois 162 at Illinois 111 and ran into a service station where the attendant called Ponton Beach police. Village officers referred the case to Granite City, where the woman reported she was battered and threatened by her boyfriend.

The victim, 26, said she and her boyfriend left a West Granite tavern after 11 p.m. Friday and drove to her residence in their separate cars.

Miller is thought to have shot Judicious Kizeart, 21, of Eagle Park, in both legs before robbing him, said Madison County Sheriff's Detective Harvey Haynes.

Kizeart was shot once in each leg with a handgun at about 2:45 p.m. April 19 in the 100 block of Harrison Street.

Haynes said there were witnesses to the shooting and said the motive appeared to be robbery.

Miller is also wanted in Missouri for escape.

Phone call routs burglar
George Yeager Jr. of the 2300 block of Pershing Boulevard reported that when he called home early in the evening of April 25 somebody picked up the phone, said nothing, then hung up. When Yeager got home, he found the back door and a kitchen window open, but nothing appeared to be missing.

"In the past two weeks, the adult prison population has climbed by 184," McGinnis said the average weekly population growth in March was 115. This compares to weekly growth of 84 thus far for Fiscal Year 1990, ending June 30.

In March, 1989, the average weekly growth was 43 while the average growth for all of 1988-89 was 38.

He said, "The alarming increase in growth during March 1990 was due to record admissions of 1,753. There were 1,058 inmates released during the month."

McGinnis again called for consensus that the prison crowding problem is at a critical stage.

"It is obvious that we cannot build our way out of this predicament. We must explore the options available and then act decisively," he said.

Dead man's checks cashed for years

EDWARDSVILLE — Granite City Steel officials said they were surprised last year to learn of a former employee's death in 1984.

The company had sent the man, Harry E. Johnson, pension checks worth about $20,000 in the time period, and the checks had all been cashed.

Johnson's son, Gale Johnson, 52, of the 100 block of West First St., Roxana, is accused of forging his father's signature and cashing the checks, authorities said.

Johnson has been charged with theft of more than $10,000 but less than $100,000, according to Madison County Assistant State's Attorney Todd Taplin.

"The checks kept coming and Johnson cashed them," Taplin said.

said. Johnson had power of attorney to sign his father's name, but it was illegal to accept the pension payments, Taplin said.

Illinois State Police detectives began an investigation after someone, apparently a relative of Harry Johnson, called the company to inquire about Harry Johnson's death benefits, Granite City Steel spokesman Bob Maxwell said.

"We checked a little further and found out he'd been dead for some time," Maxwell said.

Such occurrences are very rare, according to Maxwell. The company is usually notified by a relative or an attorney involved in settling the estate when a pensioner dies, Maxwell said.

Bond was set at $7,500.

Library given cookbook

Help is on the way for Granite City residents who want to prepare healthier foods for themselves and their families.

The Quad City Unit of the American Cancer Society is donating a copy of the "American Cancer Society Cookbook" to the Granite City Public Library, so local residents may take advantage of its 200 recipes for healthy and delicious dishes.

"Researchers estimate that as much as 60 percent of all cancers can be prevented through healthy lifestyle choices, including good nutrition," said Pat Callahan, unit board chairman. "A diet that is low in fat, high in fiber and rich in vitamins A and C may help prevent some kinds of cancer."

"With the help of the 'American Cancer Society Cookbook,' we can learn how to incorporate these foods into our diets and become the architects of our own good health," Callahan said. "This cookbook is not only about smart eating," she said.

"It's also about smart cooking. With listings from appetizers to desserts, the recipes in the cookbook include information about the grams of fat and calories per serving, as well as a fiber rating, following each recipe."

The cookbook also explains how to:

- make simple substitutions to improve the nutritive value of recipes;
- reduce fat content when roasting poultry and meats;
- cook fish to retain maximum flavor and reduce fat;
- prepare finger foods and snacks that are low in fat; and
- pick the best sources of fiber.

"Using the 'American Cancer Society Cookbook,' people may eat well knowing they are following guidelines that may help prevent cancer," Callahan said.

An editorial SALUTE TO THE SUN

It was Mark Twain who once telegraphed a newspaper, "The reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated."

While the reports of the demise of the St. Louis Sun have not been exaggerated, we believe some of the innovations, initiatives and inspiration of the Sun should be kept alive in the greater St. Louis community.

As fellow newspaper people, we were sorry that the Sun could not find its place in the St. Louis market place. But we were glad that the Sun had tried — that it had made a proud effort against the odds in a day when most experts conclude that the daily metropolitan newspaper in the United States is in irreversible decline.

The Sun fought the odds with new ideas and different approaches: The Fun in the Sun supplement for kids, which was designed not just to entertain children, but to encourage them to learn to enjoy reading; the user-friendly color TV grids and the nationally-acclaimed TV Week; Peach and its constant invitation to find new and interesting fun on the weekends.

And rather than simply sit on the sidelines as a cynical critic of the region's activities, the St. Louis Sun was committed, as Ralph Ingersoll said, "to lead the parade." The newspaper took an active role on the side of the most important initiatives of the day, particularly those important regional economic magnets, such as the convention center/domed stadium, the NFL Partnership and maintaining St. Louis as a major U.S. airline hub.

At the Suburban Journals we intend to carry forward that flag of public advocacy. We intend to fight at your side for the ideas, the institutions, and the individuals who will help improve the quality of life in our wonderful communities. And we will be inspired by the innovations of the St. Louis Sun in seeking ways to serve you better.

Elders can play a valuable role

"Our Changing Families—Who Will Do the Caring?"—an annual conference—is set for May 11 at the Clayton Hotel. The meeting is co-sponsored by the Suburban Journals. This is the third of a four-part series on family life.

By Mary Shapiro
Staff writer

"They're our teachers, our confidantes, our mentors, our defenders."

"They pick us up when we scrape our knees. They impart family history."

Whether it's "granda" or "granda" or another relative, the older members of a family can play a valuable role in that system.

But "can" is the operative word.

"The role of the elderly in a family has been changing so much lately," says Joan Offner, a therapist and clinical social worker at the Clayton office of Provident Counseling.

"In the past, their role was not so much custodial. Now, more grandparents are taking on that parental role in raising their grandchildren."

Offner points out that today's family sees more and more adult children moving back home with mom and dad, due to divorce and single parenthood.

"The parental responsibility time has been elongated," adds Offner.

"Our elderly are playing a major family role still. It's just different. More is being demanded of them, and that can cause a very intense family relationship."

Adds Shirley Albrecht, a therapist with the south county office of Provident Counseling, "Many times what happens is that an older family member will come to live with an adult child either due to the loss of a spouse or failing health."

"But the majority of adults, even though they may come to live with younger family members, want to be as independent as possible."

Sometimes, the more the merrier

The Hearst family of Chesterfield knows first-hand what it means to let everyone play an important family role.

Camille Hearst, 74, moved to the home of her son and daughter-in-law from a suburb of Albany in New York state six months ago.

"She lives in a 'mother-in-law' house, a separate wing of the children's home set up for her. And she loves it."

"I love it here because I love young people," she says.

Hearst, who has been widowed since January, has three grandchildren between 19 and 29 years of age and looks forward to their visits.

And, though she has emphysema, she tries to keep active—especially with her family.

"We always laugh a lot. We all get along great," Hearst adds.

"I like the situation of being close together. I'm a people person. We all do things together, like going out to dinner and to all kinds of events."

Daughter-in-law Patricia agrees entirely.

Offner says that major role can be powerful even when elderly family members do not live in the same household—when, in fact, they are thousands of miles away.

"When people are for whatever reason, such as job pressure—move far away, it doesn't necessarily mean that family ties will be less strong. But families need to find new ways to stay in contact," says Offner.

"In the old days, family bonding was over the Sunday dinner table. That is being replaced by calls and cards and holiday visits."

Still—taking an active role in the family on a day-to-day basis, from an older person's point of view, can sometimes mean being a big drain on resources.

Does it have to be overwhelming? So often, younger people don't take into account their elders' changing health and their desire to take a large part in the family.

Offner pushes the need to keep a dialogue going between everyone concerned, so that the elderly are not overtaxed but can still feel comfortable by making a worthwhile contribution.

"That's equally true even when an older person does not live under the same roof."

"You know, new parents have the assumption that the grandparents will be easy to conscript for babysitting," Offner said.

"But elderly persons are like anyone else. Some are more interested in and capable of caring for young children. For others, the experience can be tremendously stressful and burdensome."

Sharing a household with growing youngsters can cause other pressures.

Grandparents, especially, often question the way their grandchildren are being reared, "a formula for conflict," says Albrecht.

"It's hard on kids to have lots of adults telling them what to do. If grandparents can be supportive and set limits, children can handle that. It's when they either dote or snipe that there can be problems."

Privacy, Albrecht says, is another important component for multigenerational families.

"Older family members should try to remember that the young couple needs time alone," she says.

"On the other hand, older persons need to keep their own friends and interests. All have, and should have, their own lives. Otherwise, it's really devastating for the family, when they feel they have to do everything together."

That's why the blending of the elderly into a new household should be done with caution.

"Often, when a spouse dies, an older family member will go to live with grown children. But they are being forced to make decisions when, really, they need time to work through the loss first," says Albrecht.

"Too often what happens is that the older persons will end up losing their network of friends and familiar surroundings when they move from their own home."

"Adult children can also try to deprive them of their autonomy by being overly solicitous. And they shouldn't do that. You can never really be a parent to your parent. Caring for someone doesn't take away their parent-hood."

Despite the need to come to grips with ground rules for the relationship, Offner praises the positive contributions that an elderly family member can make.

Rita Handrich, a psychologist at the north county office of Provident Counseling, explains, "If families can just negotiate who cares for whom and what everyone is responsible for doing, there are ways the elderly can make an extremely valuable contribution."

The elderly, she says, are the means of passing down family history and stories to children, "which gives them a sense of where the family came from."

Says Albrecht, "They have a sense of history and heritage of the family's whole background. They give a sense of continuity, a sense that the family will go on. It's vital for a family to feel connected."

She adds that, with many families in which both parents work outside the home, grandparents can provide wonderful support and enrich a child's life.

Also, elders can teach middle-aged parents about aging and help them learn about the concerns they'll face in later years.

"For the elder, it helps to see they have an impact on the family and to see the responsiveness of the younger generation. It feeds them, emotionally. That's the wonderful thing about a family—it's where you get your nurturance."

While age doesn't necessarily impair wisdom, Offner adds, it does give the elderly a perspective on life that can be lent to young family members.

She says, "It's important to value the quality of their contributions. Just because such persons are less active doesn't mean they have no perspective to share. That would be a short-sighted view."

"Qualitatively, these people are overwhelmingly sharp and eager and willing and loving. Everyone can have a valuable experience through their contribution if everyone works together to respect each other's needs."

Is conflict inevitable?

By Mary Shapiro
Staff writer

Is conflict inevitable when you have an extended family under one roof?

And is there a way to make peace? Rita Handrich, a psychologist at the north county office of Provident Counseling, explains, "One of the dilemmas in multigenerational families is that they don't know how to negotiate due to proscribed roles that society thinks everyone will play."

"Conflict can occur in a relationship when you have role switching, which is sometimes inevitable."

In families, as children grow older, they necessarily come to provide a lot of care for aging parents, says Handrich.

Roles switch. Parents can be uncomfortable because they must be more cared for, while adult children often carry the baggage of unresolved childhood issues.

Just as importantly, in a situation where adult kids move back home, there is potentially the danger of an adult slipping back into the child's role of having parents provide for them—and dictate to them.

Albrecht notes that a bad situation can be in the making when an older family member takes over the majority of parenting in a household, so that the parents lose their parental authority.

Experts say it's important for older family members to figure out how much they're willing to give and recognize their individual needs and desires.

Handrich says, "If you're caring for young grandchildren all the time, you may miss out on activities you enjoy. For example, without negotiation, parents may take for granted that retired grandparents will provide full-time day care. You don't want to relegate the elderly to just a day care function. Grandparents can be so much more than that."

"Many of the elderly don't feel as competent in their 70s as they did in their 30s," says Joan Offner, a therapist and clinical social worker at the Clayton office of Provident Counseling.

"They feel tied at all they're being called on to do. They want a break. And that's a dilemma."

"How do you show support and love for your family but, at the same time, take care of your own needs?"

Communication, negotiation, communication, says Offner. "You need to negotiate between younger and older members of a family on what the roles are going to be. The real problem always comes about when the younger ones assume that grandma is going to do the same things now that she did as a mom. Assumptions cause problems."

Albrecht points to an example of a son and daughter-in-law who had problems relating with his mother.

"Mom felt she was being used as a maid," Albrecht says. "But the daughter-in-law stressed how she was giving the mother all her own favorite jobs because she wanted her to feel important in the household."

"There was just no communication. They laughed about the misunderstanding later, but that's the point: People need to say how they feel and what they want."

Simon says Local recalls popular spot

The following is by Joe Magyar of Granite City, based on his memories of growing up in the Lincoln Place area. This column touches on what was fondly known as Simon's Place, a gathering spot long gone.

In the winters of the '30s, Simon's Place was like corner stores of old. Everyone would gather around its huge pot-bellied stove for the warmth. Everytime Simon Bogosian had to add coal to the dwindling fire he had to fight his way to the coal and stove door. One day he got tired of telling everyone to move so he disappeared into his back room. When he came out he walked up to the gang, opened the stove door, opened his hand and showed everyone the larger caliber bullets and promptly threw them into the fire. In a split second there was a mass exodus for the door.

We were sitting in Simon's Place having a gab session and Simon told us about the early part of the depression. It seems three youngsters (no names as one is still alive) decided to ride a freight and hitchhike to Iowa to pick onions. Trouble is, time they got there, everyone needed was already hired as they were almost done with the harvest. Being broke and hungry, they got the bright idea to make a sign which said, "We are deaf and dumb, can you feed us." So they made one out of some cardboard and the first door they knocked on was opened by a little, elderly woman with glasses down on her nose. She read the sign, then looked at the three lined up before her. Seeing the smaller one in the rear she gently pushed the first two aside and asked, "Are you deaf and dumb, too?" He announced politely, "Yes, ma'am."

Simon Bogosian was known by many. Especially by all those that grew up in Lincoln Place. His one-table pool room and assorted penny candies, plus card games, attracted young and old. Simon was known for his quick wit and humor. He was also known for his practical jokes. His favorite place was sitting on his bench and in front and watching traffic and people go by while spitting pumpkin seed shells all over the place.

One morning while doing just that, in 1946, a pre-war automobile pulled up to his curb with a flat tire. Several Army Depot workers got out, looked at the flat, collected their lunch buckets and proceeded to walk to work leaving the car behind. Now Simon looked at that car most of the day and decided to fix the flat for them. The inner tube, tire and wheel was no match for Simon. Along about 5 o'clock here come the workers throwing their lunch buckets into the car, they proceeded to look for the flat tire. All the while Simon watched with his arms folded and not doing anything but smiling. After going around the car and kicking the tires a few times they got in a drove away. Somewhere there may be someone still alive that can't figure out how a flat tire in the morning can be full of air in the evening. If Simon, who died Jan. 8 two years ago, would bump into them in Heaven, I could see that smile on his face and he still wouldn't say anything.

SEEKING INFORMATION ABOUT ELDERHOSTEL: Vasil Fryntzko, Granite City, seeks information about the Elderhostel Program, a travel/study program for older people which permits seniors to spend a week on a university campus for a minimal fee, from Reba Klenke, staff member in the Office of Continuing Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Fryntzko was on campus attending the annual Senior Citizens Fair, an activity which attracts more than 3,000 seniors each year.

Alorton mayor heads national mayors' group

ALORTON — Mayor Cillie Mobley was sworn in April 7 as the president of the board of directors of the National Black Women Mayors' Caucus.

The ceremony was conducted by Judge Robert H. Collins at the Clarion Hotel in New Orleans.

"I give all the praise and glory to God," Mobley said of the honor. "I never dreamed that someday I would hold a national office, but with God nothing is impossible."

Other officers are: Mayor Veronika Shephard of Urban, Ohio, first vice president; Mayor Willie Mae Snow of Hoboken, N.J., second vice president; and Mayor Martin Scott of Highland Park, Mich., third vice president.

The national group has 73 members and was formed in 1988 in Philadelphia. Its first workshop was held in Oakland, Calif., in 1989 and was financed by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor. The second workshop, held April 3 in New Orleans, had the theme "Combating Sexism in the Workplace."

The organizations' objectives are: to highlight and enhance the role of black women as mayors; and to focus national attention on the needs of black women; and to encourage black women to pursue elected office.

Mobley became the first black female mayor of Alorton and the first in the state when she was elected in 1981.

Lottery hosts weekend fete at St. Clair Square

The Illinois State Lottery is hosting a "Spring Bonus Weekend" at St. Clair Square in Fairview Heights, offering customers the free Lottery ticket coupons and the chance to win a 19-inch color TV and a video cassette recorder.

Scheduled May 3-6, the mall event is the fourth of 11 weekend promotions planned as part of a statewide educational tour designed to present facts on the Lottery's role in funding education, how Lottery funds are allocated and to answer questions on new and existing Lottery games.

"The weekend events are intended to be fun and also informative," said Lottery Director Sharon Sharp. "We feel it is an ideal opportunity to meet with our players and answer any questions they may have concerning the Lottery. We also hope to introduce new players to the fun of playing the Lottery games."

A specially-designed educational display will be set up in the mall during the event. Information modules will describe the Lottery's on-line and instant games and also describe the Lottery's role as a state revenue source. Customers (18 years or older) who visit the exhibit can obtain coupons for free instant Lottery tickets and participate in one of the many prize drawings to be held each day.

To enter one of the drawings, customers complete a playslip by selecting five numbers from a play grid and deposit the playslip at the Lottery exhibit. Five winning numbers will be drawn and prizes will be awarded to players who correctly match three, four and five of the winning numbers.

A player who matches all five numbers drawn will receive a 19-inch color TV with a video cassette recorder. Other prizes will be awarded to those who match three and four of the numbers drawn, including free Lottery tickets, umbrellas and T-shirts.

No purchase is necessary to enter the drawings, but participants must be present to win.

In addition, customers 18 years or older can use store receipts from participating mall merchants to earn free Lottery game coupons. Customers will receive a $1 free game coupon for each $25 mall purchase.

Receipts should be dated no more than seven days prior to the Lottery event to qualify and must be validated at the Lottery exhibit.

There is a limit of $4 in coupons for $100 in purchases and also, a limit of $4 per household.

The St. Clair Square exhibit will be manned by Lottery officials during regular shopping hours. Illinois State Lottery Director Sharon Sharp will visit the mall May 3, at 1 p.m.

Fashionable girl seeks home

GRANITE CITY The Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is seeking help from area families who are willing to provide care to foster children of all ages.

Susie, now 16, is a tall, attractive girl who has long, dark hair and a nice smile. She is neat appearing and always tries to dress in the latest fashions.

She first became the victim of abuse in her family three years ago. Now she cannot live with either parent.

She will probably remain in foster care until she is 18.

Susie's problems have taken a toll on her mental health and have required her to be hospitalized several times for depression. She is also uncertain in her ability to get along with others.

Susie's foster family will need to be understanding of this troubled teenager. They will have to provide firm and fair rules along with encouragement and the right amount of praise when she does well.

DCFS provides a monthly board payment to help cover the basic expenses of caring for a child.

If you are interested in giving a home advantage to Susie, or in foster care in general, call Jeanette Rettle, resource development specialist, at 452-8420.

Abduction

The boyfriend, 21, also from Granite City, had four male passengers in his vehicle, she said.

After reaching the home, the boyfriend became angry and pushed her against a wall, she said. Her back struck the edge of the kitchen counter and she fell to the floor.

At that point, the four men outside the house began beating on the doors and windows and the suspect let them inside, she said. The woman was crying and asked that someone take her to the emergency room, saying she had hurt her back and had no feeling in her legs.

She reported the men laughed and the suspect got a cigarette lighter and held it near the outside of the calf of her right leg to see if she could feel it.

She couldn't feel the flame at the time but was feeling pain from a small burn mark on her leg when she made the report, police said.

Police verified a burn mark on the woman's calf and other bruises.

After the lighter incident, the four men borrowed the suspect's auto and left the house to go to another tavern, she said.

The victim continued to plead with the suspect to be taken to the hospital. When she started to crawl toward the phone, the suspect held her down and began choking her and threatening her, she said.

He gathered up some of her clothing and took it out to her car, she said, and then carried her into the bedroom.

Another man came to the house at that point and the suspect told her to be quiet. The man, who was let in, later told police the suspect was acting strangely. The victim said she tried to get up from the bed but fell to the floor.

The man who had arrived came to the bedroom and found her on the floor, crying and leaning against the dresser, he said. He offered to take her to the emergency room, but the suspect then insisted on taking her there himself, she said.

A woman friend called on the phone and when she heard the victim crying said she would take her to the hospital. The woman friend took a taxi to the victim's house but no one was there when she arrived, she told police.

The suspect picked up the victim and carried her to her car. With the male friend following in his car, the suspect drove the vehicle north on Madison Avenue and turned left on 21st Street. After he drove past the hospital, she tried to get out of the car, the victim said.

Inside the car, the suspect grabbed her hair, struck her face on the steering wheel and threatened her, she said.

The man drove north on Washington Avenue to Nameoki Road and then south, turning east on East 23rd Street and onto Illinois 162. At State Aid 35, the other man, who had been following the vehicle, pulled alongside the car but the light changed and the suspect continued driving east on 162.

The victim said the suspect pulled a gun from under the seat and threatened to shoot the man following them, she said. As the suspect was stopping for a red light at the intersection of Illinois 111, she jumped from the auto and ran across the highway to the service station, she said. He drove off, going south on 111.

The man who had been following them drove the victim to her house and picked up the woman friend who had called. They drove to the police station to make a report.

Banks

deposits in Madison County, $260 million. Overall, Magna Group's assets total $2.2 billion, he said. United Illinois Bank, Collinsville Building and Loan, and Home Federal Savings and Loan of Collinsville did not express interest in buying Madison County Federal.

Madison County Federal has been under conservatorship since last spring because of financial problems.

Federal officials say that although Madison County Federal will likely be sold, it is possible that deposits could be transferred to another savings and loan or that the firm could be liquidated.

In any of the three scenarios, depositors will have quick access to their funds as long as their accounts do not exceed the federally insured minimum of $100,000.

Foley

Maude (Fitzgerald) Foley, 83, of Bethalto, formerly of Granite City, died at 2:45 p.m. Monday, April 30, 1990, at Rosewood Care Center in Alton.

Mrs. Foley was born Aug. 6, 1907, in Springfield, Ill., and had also lived in Venice. She had been a homemaker and was of the Protestant faith.

Survivors include her husband, Frank Foley, one daughter, Patricia M. Foley of New York City; one sister, Mrs. Charles (Mary) Braden of Collinsville; and one brother, Lyonel Fitzgerald of Alton.

Preceding her in death were her parents, Joe and Maude (Kelly) Fitzgerald.

Arrangements are pending at Irwin Chapel, 931-8000.

Moore

Marie L. (Cramer) Moore, 61, of Madison, died at 4:40 p.m. Saturday, April 28, 1990, at Belleville Memorial Hospital. She had been ill for one month and in the hospital the same amount of time.

Mrs. Moore was born April 11, 1929, in Flora, Ill., and was a lifetime resident of the Quad City area.

She was of the Protestant faith and was retired from the Madison School District, where she was employed as a cook for more than 20 years.

Surviving are one son, James Moore of Collinsville; one daughter, Donna Stages of St. Louis; two brothers, Austin "Ray" Cramer of Madison and Donald Eugene Cramer of Granite City; one sister, Amy "Sassy" Cramer of Madison; and two grandchildren.

Birth control for roaches?

URBANA — Although it isn't likely that roach motels will be replaced by tiny Planned Parenthood offices, birth-control chemicals are the latest development in the control of German cockroaches.

"The chemical involved is hydrophore," said Phil Nixon, an entomologist with the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. "It is available to homeowners in Black Flag Roach Enders and is available to exterminators as Gencor. Exterminators can also use fenoxycarb, another insecticide containing birth-control material."

These insecticides affect the cockroach when it is in the immature "nymph" stage. Roaches affected by the chemicals are able to grow up to be adults, but their wings are twisted and they are incapable of reproducing. Because this chemical does not kill the roach, it takes about six months before the old roaches die off, leaving no young to take their place.

Control is usually needed before six months have passed, Nixon says, so another insecticide is usually mixed with the birth-control insecticide.

The quick-kill insecticide is effective for about a month, while the birth-control insecticide lasts for at least three months, continuing to sterilize roaches that contact it.

German cockroaches are brown roaches, about five-eighths of an inch long, common in kitchens. To help reduce roach numbers, Nixon recommends that you use other control methods with the spray.

"Practice good sanitation so food is not readily available to them," he said. "Because they feed at night on the same or similar food as we do, remove garbage from the home in the evening or seal it in closed plastic bags. Also, do not leave dirty dishes out at night and be sure to pick up pet food before nightfall."

Another traffic is to close cracks and crevices where roaches hide. Nixon suggests caulking cracks and crevices in food and dish cabinets, behind the water and drain pipes passing through the floor or wall.

"It is usually best to not caulk baseboards," he said. "Spray these cracks and crevices with insecticide."

Although good sanitation and caulking can reduce roach numbers, Nixon says insecticides are normally needed to rid them from a house.

Lawmakers support Lithuania struggle for independence

By Dawn Grimes
States News Service

WASHINGTON — During a 90-minute telephone conversation with Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis April 25 Rep. Richard Durbin and six other lawmakers expressed support for the country's independence movement and denounced the current policy of President George Bush.

Bush said he would not retaliate against the Soviet Union for its crackdown on Lithuania because he feared sanctions could inadvertently cause a backlash that "would set back the cause of freedom around the world."

"I am very disappointed with President Bush," said the Springfield Democrat, a member of the congressional Baltic Freedom Caucus. The group spoke to the Lithuanian leader via a telephone call from Durbin's office.

"If the president cannot bring himself to condemn this violation of Lithuania, let us at least offer a hand to provide food, medicine and essentials of life to this struggling nation," Durbin said.

Landsbergis said the Lithuanian people are prepared to ride out the Soviet blockade but he can't be sure what will happen in the long term. He called on the citizens of the United States to create a political climate that will encourage the recognition of Lithuania.

At the end of the telephone conversation, Durbin told Landsbergis "to keep strong the faith of freedom in Lithuania." He also asked for a list of the most critical needs for a possible humanitarian shipment to Lithuania.

Earlier this month Durbin introduced a resolution that overwhelmingly passed the House calling on Bush to recognize an independent and democratic Lithuania at the earliest time possible.

Reacting to Bush's statement, Landsbergis said: "Our worst fears are being realized. The Soviet Union is strangling Lithuania."

Dixon leads band at bash

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

SCOTT AIR BASE — Sen. Alan Dixon made his debut as conductor of the Military Airlift Command band Friday night at Scott Air Force Base, surprising the more than 500 guests attending the Air County's homecoming banquet.

The impromptu appearance of Dixon, D-Belleville, came after the band director overheard Dixon discuss his own years as second clarinet in his junior high school band.

"When it was time to play the closing number, 'Stars and Stripes Forever,' the band director came after Al," said Bob Gentsch, bicentennial commission chairman.

The conductor led Dixon to the podium and gave him the baton. Gentsch said, "He brought the house down. It was a tremendous climax to the evening."

The guests represented all sectors of the county, with political, business, religious and community leaders in attendance. The event, billed as the county's homecoming dinner, marked the 200th anniversary of the county's founding on April 27, 1790.

"This (dinner) is the way many citizens of St. Clair County could share their feelings toward the county they live in and work in," Gentsch said.

A display of various types of aircraft Hangar No. 2 where the dinner was held, included a 1940 Waco biplane, which was flown in especially for the banquet. The display was a bicentennial commission chairman.

Surrounding the dining area, a quilt display added color and history.

"One of the quilts was made from a Civil War uniform with the uniform buttons used as decoration on each of the four corners," Neumeier said.

Entertainment included the Colonial Life and Drums Corps from Alton, who have been officially sanctioned by Colonial Williamsburg because of the authenticity of their music, instruments and uniforms.

Three religious denominations present when St. Clair County was formed also were represented at the dinner. James P. Keleher, Catholic bishop of the Belleville Diocese, opened the evening with a prayer. Sherman Bridgman, representing the Baptist church, offered the prayer before dinner, and Don Katz closed the evening with a prayer from the Jewish faith.

During the festivities, Arthur St. Clair (Don Urban) discussed his thoughts on the county's founding, and George Rogers Clark (Bob Hunsaker) offered county history and discussed different battles significant to the county. Bob Gentsch also discussed county history.

Local barkeeps in running

Almost $85,000 has been collected so far by thousands of bartenders competing for top honors in the 11th annual MS/Budweiser Ugly Bartender Contest.

The contest, which runs through May 3, is being held simultaneously in metro St. Louis, southern Illinois, eastern Missouri and central Missouri. Dan Dierdorf is the honorary "Ugly" chairman for the 11th consecutive year.

Bartenders competing in the event receive one vote for every 25 cents collected from their patrons. All proceeds benefit the Gateway Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society. The bartender receiving the most votes wins the title of "Ugliest Bartender."

Among the top 20 ranked bars are Beaver's Den in Madison and Wayside Inn in Granite City.

Tanning has hazards

The following is by Bernard J. Turnock, M.D., director of the Illinois Department of Public Health.

As summer approaches, the urge to "get a tan" will become nearly irresistible to many people.

One of the hazards of sunbathing is the risk of basal cell or squamous cell carcinomas—the most common and easily treated forms of skin cancer. They do not spread and are usually 100 percent curable in the early stages.

A more serious hazard is malignant melanoma, a rare but dangerous form of skin cancer. Alarmingly, the number of cases is rising rapidly. In 1988, 262 Illinoisans died from melanoma, and more than 5,000 Americans are expected to die from it this year. In fact, the death rate from malignant melanoma is increasing faster than that of any other cancer except lung cancer in women.

Melanoma, which arises in moles or in the tanning cells of skin, can spread quickly to vital organs where traditional and conventional forms of cancer treatment are seldom effective.

If detected early, 97 percent of melanomas are curable. But, if they become too deep in the skin, or spread to internal organs, the chance of cure is very poor.

Melanoma usually strikes people between the ages of 30 and 50. It is one of the worst cancers in terms of what it does and how little can be done to cure it in the late stages.

Like many cancers, melanoma can be prevented.

One of the most important preventive measures is a change in the popular attitude that a tanned body is a healthy body. We must learn to realize that being fair-skinned is not unhealthy, can be just as beautiful as being tanned, and staying "pale" greatly reduces the risk of skin cancer.

Even if cancer doesn't develop, too much sun can dry your skin and age it, adding years to your appearance.

Help available to locate vital records

Vital records are just that... vital. We need access to them.

In this age of bureaucratic documentation, everyone has need of copies of records of birth, death, marriage or divorce. An application for benefits from the Veterans Administration or Social Security, a passport or marriage license requires not only the information in the records but usually copies of the records themselves.

All these records are stored permanently by municipalities, counties, states and the federal government.

The Consumer Education Research Center, a national non-profit consumer group, found there was little uniformity on where the records were available and the costs. In some states, birth records are kept by the city and in others by the county or state. To further complicate matters, often older records are held in different places than current ones. In addition, the addresses where the records are kept are changed quite often.

The consumer group found many people had difficulty in locating the records they needed. Often, it was necessary to make expensive long distance calls just to find out where to write, what information was required and how much money to send. For that reason CERC has been publishing a book entitled Where To Write For Vital Records which contains a state-by-state listing of the addresses and telephone numbers of the archive where each record can be found, the cost of a copy of the document and sample form letters containing all the information needed to get these and other vital documents.

CERC has just released the 1989 update. For those needing information from foreign countries, the book edition contains a list of government offices where you can get help in locating vital records kept in almost every country. Even U.S. citizens born overseas, on a ship or aircraft can locate the place where their records are kept.

The organization found that many people have used previous editions to locate their family trees or roots. For those, the book includes information on the Family History Library of the Mormon Church.

This library contains over 200,000 volumes of family history records and a list of almost a quarter-million people who are willing to share information to help you find your family roots.

To get a copy of this useful book, send $6.50 to CERC Documents, 350 Scotland Road, Orange, N.J. 07050.

Simple steps may speed Medicare pay

By Bill Hunel

Social Security Administration
Q. Is there anything I can do to get Medicare to pay for my doctor bills faster?

A. Some doctors will submit Medicare claims for their patients. But many patients have to deal with Medicare themselves. And for those people, there are a few simple steps you can take that might speed up the process.

First, make sure you copy your Medicare claim number exactly as it is shown on your red, white and blue Medicare card. Your Medicare number usually is your Social Security number followed by a letter or by a letter and a number.

Be sure to complete all items on the Medicare claim form. Instructions are included on the back of every form. It is important to show your correct mailing address and include your telephone number in the space provided.

In addition, be sure to complete the information requested in block five about other health insurance coverage you might have. If you don't have other coverage, don't skip over the block, be sure to mark "No."

You also must attach an itemized bill from your doctor. The bill should show the date and place you received the services. And it should include a description of the services, the amount charged and the name and address of the doctor.

It also is helpful if your diagnosis is shown both on the bill and in item No. 4 of the claim form. If you are not sure of the diagnosis, ask the doctor.

Finally, don't save up your claims to submit at the end of the year. Many people do this and the result is a large backlog of work for Medicare. Submit your claims throughout the year.

as you get bills from your doctors and other health care providers.

Q. I had surgery several weeks ago. After looking over the hospital billing statement and the Explanation of Medicare Benefits, I think the doctor charged me for services I did not receive. What can I do?

A. Call your doctor and try to resolve the discrepancy. If you still suspect that incorrect charges have been made, there is a toll-free hot line you can call to report it.

The number is for the Inspector General for the Department of Health and Human Services. That office handles cases of alleged fraud or abuse of the Medicare program. Their telephone number is 800-368-5779.

Q. I get Supplemental Security Income because I am old and have nothing. My brother just died and left me some money he had in a savings account. Will this money affect my SSI benefits?

A. Just about any income you get will affect your SSI payments. SSI is designed to supplement your other income and bring it up to a minimum amount per month. As other income increases, SSI decreases.

The money inherited from your brother is considered income for the month you receive it. It could reduce your SSI or even make you ineligible for that month, depending on the amount of the inheritance.

If you still have the money after the first month, it will count against limits on your resources of assets. An individual on SSI cannot have more than $2,000 in resources. Money more than $2,000 must be spent if you want to remain eligible for SSI. Call Social Security at 800-234-5772 for more details.

Does laughter keep doctor away?

By the Illinois State Medical Society in conjunction with Phil Lebowitz, M.D., a Chicago psychiatrist and ISMS member.

Laughter is good for us. While it may not cure all illnesses, finding humor in certain situations can be very beneficial to our health.

Perhaps one of the reasons we pay so much to see a good stand-up comic or stay up late to watch Johnny Carson is that we enjoy laughing.

Sigmund Freud was one of the first theorists to write about laughter. He said laughter is an essential part of life. The fact that people can enjoy a joke, Freud said, is important because it allows them to experience triumph over life's miseries and instills a sense of mastery, whatever the trouble is. He said people laugh when they feel a sense of comfort, relief or when they realize that there is going to be less trouble than they thought.

Another contemporary author in California, who wrote about laughter, said his chronic illness subsided after he took a more pleasurable view of life. While he was ill with rheumatoid arthritis, he stumbled upon the idea that if he could adopt a more optimistic attitude, by finding things that he could laugh about, it would help alleviate his awful pain and struggle. Laughter became such a strong tonic that his life-threatening illness eventually subsided. He made it a task to find something that he could laugh about every day.

Laughter can be a good measuring tool for a patient's condition. When people are depressed, they are incapable of enjoying life's pleasures and finding humor in situations. There is a profound sense of giving up. However, when a patient's depression begins to lift, they develop a corresponding sense of humor.

Thus, they develop a more solid sense of themselves and can stand back from a problem, look at it with an eye towards finding better solutions, and see what the situation's humor is. They also are able to smile, enjoy a good joke and maybe even tell some.

People also use laughter as a cover-up for their own inadequacies or hostility. This is commonly known as a "nervous laugh." A "nervous laugh" eases an embarrassing situation and also relieves hostility in a tense situation. It happens when people are uncomfortable or worried about how they're going to appear. Ultimately, they try to shift the spotlight away from themselves by forcing something funny to happen to relieve themselves of the tension.

Laughter is a feeling of being able to play with something, to have control over that, which initially might have seemed out of control. A study conducted years ago of laughter in children and babies also has some relevance to adults.

The study revealed that when children were thrown in the air and tossed around by parents or relatives in an affectionate way, it evoked squeals of laughter. The children initially found the sudden movement temporarily frightening. After they realized the movement was going to stop and they were going to be safe, they felt pleasure.

Ultimately, this resulted in laughter. Likewise, when older children or adults take thrill rides, such as on roller coasters or going down the rapids on a rafting trip, in the end, they feel more refreshed and relaxed.

Most important about laughter, is that it is tension-relieving, especially in today's stressful society. We should remember, in the next time we find ourselves in a terrible situation, to look for the humor. It can be more beneficial to our health than we may know.

Lady Warriors follow big win with record 10-goal outburst

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Gene Baker could talk all he wanted. But the Lady Warrior soccer team probably still needed some tangible proof that it was better than the record indicated.

That proof came last Friday afternoon. While the rains came and went, the Lady Warriors stayed a steady course and scored a big 10 win over Incarnate Word, the defending Missouri state champions.

"I've been telling the girls all along that they have played very well in just about every game this year," said Baker. "But this will really help them."

"Incarnate Word had a great team last year and they returned just about everyone from that team, plus they have a good freshman crop. They have outstanding players in Tammy Meek and Shannon Shepard, but we really couldn't concentrate on one or two players because there is a lot of balance."

Far from suffering a letdown after the Lady Win, the Warriors came back with a vengeance Monday at Memorial Stadium. McCluer probably wished the March 27 game which was rained out was never rescheduled. Granite City exploded for a team-record 10 goals and blasted the Comets 10-1 to raise their record to 6-3 with their third straight win.

Junior Addie Lenzi scored the first two goals to give her five on the season. Sophomore Amanda Witter got the next two to give her five as well. Witter's second goal made it 4-0 early in the second half and came on a beautiful diving head shot on a crossing pass.

Things deteriorated quickly for McCluer after that as junior Lia Mendoza got her first of the season, as did Tammy Dutko, Angela Parker and Jennifer Wheeler. Jennifer Harper and Suzanne Stuart both scored their second goals of the year.

Jill Wagner scored McCluer's only goal just 15 seconds after Dutko made it 6-0, but Lady Warrior keeper Beth Rapoff was unscathed on the rest of the night.

Lenzi scored the game's only goal Friday with seven minutes left in the first half. She scored unassisted, working the ball down the left wing and chipping a shot over the keeper and in.

"Our idea was to play right with them the whole way," said Baker. "They had a few chances, but Leslie Staveland had an outstanding game in goal. She had one breakaway to stop, and she came out and smothered the ball very well. Leslie struggled in our first game (a 4-0 loss to 160 and top-ranked Oakville), but she has really come on and earned the top spot."

The rains came and went all afternoon.

"It would come in a downpour for a few minutes and then it would stop completely," said Baker. "It must have done that about six times. But it helped that we played the varsity game first (the Granite City JV allowed its first goal of the year and lost 1-0). The field was still in fairly good shape for much of our game."

It was the second loss to an Illinois team in two weeks for Incarnate Word (11-4-2), ranked third in the St. Louis area. They lost 1-0 to Alton in the Collinsville Tournament on April 19.

Cardinals pick Giants' Clark as best player

It seemed like an easy enough question: If you could start your own baseball team from scratch and take anybody you wanted, who would be the first player you'd pick?

In an informal survey, that question was put to 19 Cardinal players, coaches and manager Whitey Herzog. The results showed anything but a consensus on who the game's best player is. It also took most of those polled several minutes to finally settle on their answer.

Nine players received votes. Nobody picked a pitcher and only two players received more than two votes each. San Francisco Giants first baseman Will Clark, who won the poll with six votes, and Oakland A's right fielder Jose Canseco, who came in second with four votes.

Interestingly, four of Clark's votes came from pitchers who have to face him. All of Canseco's votes came from position players.

"He's a young proven talent who's a great offensive player and is good on defense too," said Danny Cox of Clark. "If I was pitching, he would be a guy I'd want playing first base."

"He's a guy I've seen play and I respect his ability. I would definitely want him on my club."

Herzog, after weighing the question for several minutes, finally picked Cincinnati Reds shortstop Barry Larkin over Clark.

"They are the only two possible choices in this league," Herzog said. "It's got to be one or the other. Larkin is a shortstop, so that gives him an edge. Last year before he got hurt he was leading the league in everything. And he's started out good again this year."

Larkin received one other vote for a total of two, tying Oakland's Rickey Henderson. One vote each was cast for Eric Davis of Cincinnati, Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees, Tony Gwynn of the San Diego Padres, Kirby Puckett of the Minnesota Twins and Willie McGee of the Cardinals.

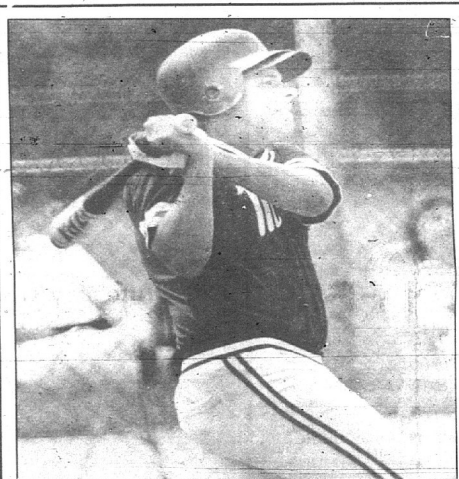

Cardinal general manager Dal Maxvill said last week he didn't think the team will make a trade with the California Angels, despite some apparent interest by the Angels in either Vince Coleman or Tom Brunansky.

Maxvill said he didn't think any of the Angels' relievers, including right-hander Bryan Harvey, is better than any reliever the Cardinals have.

If Maxvill could get Harvey for either of his outfielders, he should do it in a minute. Harvey is a quality, proven closer something the Cardinals still don't have. Harvey is 26, saved 25 games for the Angels last year after saving 17 as a rookie in 1988 and can't be freed agent until after the 1993 season.

Other trade rumors in the past

(See RAINS, Page 4B)

HOT BAT FOR BUCKS: John Moad of Granite City, a sophomore first baseman for Lewis and Clark Community College, drove in 15 runs in six games last week as the Bucks ended the regular season with an 18-15 record. Moad was 4 for 6 with four RBIs in a double-header against Belleville Area College on April 22. He then had a grand slam and a double for six RBIs in one inning against Forest Park on April 24. Moad finished off the week with another 4-for-6 performance against Flo Valley on April 26 which included a double and five RBIs. He was batting .333. LCCC opens post-season play this weekend.

week have had the Cardinals seeking an offensive third baseman, such as Minnesota's Gary Gaetti or the Montreal Expos' Tim Lincecum, along with a reliever.

In case anybody is curious, McGee's April was much better than the first month of his MVP season in 1985. That year, McGee hit .297 in April with five RBIs, playing in just 13 games, before winding up with a .353 average and 82 RBIs. This year, he hit .361 with 12 RBIs.

In contrast, Brunansky suffered through one of the worst months of his career with the Cardinals, hitting just .180 with two RBIs. Last April, Brunansky hit .211 with 12 RBIs. In July 1988 he hit .182 but still had 14 RBIs and in the final month, plus two days, of the 1988 season he hit .178 with just four RBIs.

With the retirement of Houston Astros pitching coach Les Moss and Toronto Blue Jays pitching coach Al Widmar, there are no more ex-St. Louis Browns in uniform in the major leagues. Outfielder Brian Jordan, considered one of the Cardinals' best prospects, got off to a slow start at Double A Arkansas. After 12 games, he was hitting just .125 and had no extra-base hits and no RBIs.

If you need more evidence that spending money doesn't guarantee immediate success, look no farther west than Kansas City. The Royals shot to the top of the payroll standings by signing free agents Mark Davis, Storm Davis and Richard Dotson over the winter and found themselves in last place in the AL West after 15 games. Their 5-10 record at that point is the worst in franchise history. With the Mets searching desperately for a center fielder, a skeptic would note that five players who came up through the Mets' organization as center fielders now are playing elsewhere in the majors—Len Dykstra (Philadelphia Phillies), Mookie Wilson (Blue Jays), Brian Wintingham (Reds), Marvell Wynne (Chicago Cubs) and Stan Jefferson (Baltimore Orioles).

advantage in that game," said Baker. "But we had 10 shots to their eight and had more corner kicks (4-3). It was just a solid effort by everyone."

The Lady Warriors play at Hazelwood West today at 4 p.m. The junior varsity hosts Hazelwood West in Granite City today.

Home and garden

Granite City Journal—Wednesday, May 2, 1990—5B

EASY-TO-PLEASE marigolds are sun-loving annuals whose flowers come in yellow, gold, orange, red and maroon tones.

Warm up garden with marigolds

Native to Mexico and named for the mother of Jesus, the flower of "Mary's Gold," better known as marigold, is colorful, undemanding and easy to grow in sunny borders.

The marigold is among the top choices in flowering annuals. There are types for the tidy flower border in a limited space, a patio planting, an indoor arrangement or a massed bed. Heights vary from several inches to several feet and flowers come in yellow, gold, orange, red and maroon tones.

The shorter, earlier-blooming French marigolds (Tagetes patula) grow 6 to 16 inches tall and have a profusion of small single, crested, anemone or carnation shaped flowers. Popular varieties among this type include the Boy, Aurora, Bonanza, Janie, Sophie, Spice and Queen series, and the single Dainty and Red Marietas.

A cross between the two types is known as a triploid (Tagetes patula x erecta). Popular with today's gardeners, it is known for its ability to produce blooms all summer, even in the hottest part of the country when other marigolds lose their free-flowering habit. This is because triploids do not set seeds. Some well-known types are Red Seven Star, Showboat, the Nuggets, Sundance and the Mighty Marietas.

When buying marigold plants, look for healthy, compact, green plants.

Plant outdoors into prepared soil after all danger of frost has passed. Select a site in full sun and space plants a distance apart equal to about one-half their mature height. When planning the garden and selecting plants, pick a variety of heights, types and flower colors.

Once planted, the marigold needs little attention other than watering when the soil becomes dry. Pinch out the central bud for increased bushiness.

Faded flowers must be picked off to encourage continuous blooming, except in the case of triploids which do not form seed.

Garden book solves planting 'horrors'

The following article consists of excerpts from "Vegetable Gardening Questions and Answers," a guide sheet available for a nominal charge from the University of Missouri Cooperative Extension Service. The guide sheet, whose number is G-6400, has been edited for reprinting here.

New gardeners may be bewildered by the many varieties, and many variations in ideas on how a vegetable should be grown. Below, answers are provided to some frequently asked questions on the needs of a number of plants.

•Cabbage
How can cabbage heads be kept from splitting?
Heavy rains after heads are well-developed often cause splitting. Prompt harvesting is essential. If not possible, twist or pull the plant slightly to tear some of the roots, and cut down on water absorption and consequent splitting. Some varieties are more prone to splitting.

•Cauliflower
What causes cauliflower heads to become greenish-colored and bitter?

Most likely the head has received too much light and growth has been slow. When the new head is about the size of a half dollar, tie the large leaves together over the head to shade it. This keeps it white. Bitter flavor also may be associated with slow growth due to low fertility or hot weather.

The cauliflower I planted was self-blanching, but leaves did not cover the head totally. Why?

These varieties work best in cool climates. Late planting or low fertility would reduce vigor, and prevent leaves curling over the center from being large enough to give good cover. These same conditions result in poor head formation.

•Carrot
What makes carrot roots short, knobby and sometimes split?

Heavy soils, rocky soils, low fertility, and crowding can lead to stubby, short roots. Hot weather may stunt growth, but when followed by a period of wet favorable weather, roots may rapidly expand and develop cracks. Knobby roots indicate nematode problems.

•Lettuce
Why is lettuce tough or bitter?
Slow growth results in these characteristics. Crowding, low fertility, late planting, and hot weather all stunt growth and reduce quality.

Why does lettuce go to seed instead of producing a lush, leafy plant?

Hot weather causes lettuce to "bolt" and flower. Plant early and select varieties listed as heat-tolerant.

•Radish
Why do radishes become pithy and hot?

Slow growth due to hot weather, drought, or poor fertility can lead to pithy, hot roots. Early planting and adequate moisture are best precautions against this.

Why do radishes form abundant tops and few edible roots?

In most cases, this is due to one of two causes: too much nitrogen in the soil or planting too late.

Pea-pickin' vegetables best during springtime

With the arrival of spring comes a strong yearning for the early vegetables of the season—fresh, succulent, green delights that often seem the best of the year. Peas, the first of the springtime vegetables, are already planted with new crops available that flourish as backyard gardens warm.

Most people are familiar with the round English pea, usually labeled sweet peas or just green peas when canned or frozen, that must be removed from its pod before eating. Newer varieties of sugar snap and snow peas have sweet, tender, edible pods which are delicious if eaten before the pods, called "berries," develop inside.

All peas are healthy additions to a diet. A cup of peas provides about 14 percent of the Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) of iron, one-third the recommended amount of vitamin C, about half the RDA for folate, and about 19 percent of the RDA for vitamin A.

When selecting fresh English peas, look for glossy, bright green, smooth-skinned pods. Avoid those that are off-color, dull or limp and those that feel very hard or have dry rough pods. Remember that it takes about two pounds of English peas in the pod to produce about two cups of peas.

With their edible pods, fresh sugar snap and snow peas are often more economical. Sugar snap peas look like miniature English peas, but every bit of the sugar snap, but the pods are crunchy and sweet. When buying snap peas, look for plump, tender pods.

Snow peas, popular in Oriental cuisine, are also fully usable. The color of fresh snow peas is slightly paler than that of English peas, but the pods should feel fresh and velvety. Look for small pods with immature "berries" in a cool, humid environment and use them as soon as possible. Shell English peas just before cooking and snap the ends from snap and snow peas.

Steam peas to retain all their nutrients, bright color, crunchy texture and flavor. Microwaving is an ideal way to cook peas. Snap and snow peas are delicious stir-fry ingredients. Marjoram, basil, dill, nutmeg and mint are seasonings that complement peas.

The following recipe takes advantage of the flavor of fresh spring peas in combination with oranges, scallions and tomatoes. This salad can be prepared quickly from cooked-ahead rice, and is a wonderful companion to fish and chicken dishes.

Rice salad with oranges and peas

- 2 large oranges
- 1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper
- 2 tbsp. olive oil
- 4 cups cooked brown rice, cooled
- 1/2 cup cooked peas
- 6 scallions, sliced
- 6 cherry tomatoes, halved (optional)

Remove peel and white pith from oranges. Using small, sharp knife, cut between the skin to release sections. Squeeze pulp over bowl, reserving 1/4 cup juice. Cut orange sections in 1/2-inch cubes.

Blend reserved orange juice and pepper in small bowl. Slowly whisk oil. Mix orange pieces, rice and peas in large bowl. Stir in dressing. Arrange scallions and tomatoes on top as garnish.

Yields six (1 cup) servings, 230 calories and 5 gm. fat each. For a free copy of "From Around the World—International Menu and Recipes," send a self-addressed, business-size envelope stamped with 45 cents postage to American Institute for Cancer Research, Department AW, Washington, D.C.

Missouri, Illinois foods highlighted

National Super Markets is having a "Governor's Sale" this week promoting food products produced in Illinois and Missouri.

National stores are working with the agricultural marketing departments in both states in what is described as the "finest such, two-state" promotional event.

Home-packed lunch healthy pickup

By Jacqueline Lankner
Registered Dietitian
American Heart Association

To save money, control calories and fulfill a variety of reasons, many people pack lunch instead of buying the meal away from home. This practice may or may not pay off depending on the types of foods chosen. In fact, in some cases the meal may be more costly and less healthy than the choices found at work-site cafeterias.

How do your brown bag lunches rate? If they consist mainly of high-fat luncheon meats and cheese sandwiches, it may be time to look at alternatives. That is not to say there are no low-fat luncheon meats and cheese in the market. The best choices are at least 95 percent fat-free and contain about 2 grams fat per ounce.

Watch portions to control fat and calories. Rather than piling on the meat, load it up with tomatoes, lettuce, cucumbers or green peppers. Once the right sequence of low-fat meat sandwiches is found, it is easy to make enough for future lunches, too. Wrap them individually and freeze. Add vegetable toppings immediately before eating. If wrapped well, sandwiches will stay fresh about two weeks.

Alternatives to luncheon meat sandwiches are endless. Start on the bottom with a variety of bread. Use whole wheat, rye or pumpernickel bread, bagels, Kaiser rolls or pita pockets. For a filling, mix water-packed tuna with minced celery, onion, reduced-calorie mayonnaise and nonfat yogurt. Mix low-fat cottage cheese with fresh vegetables to make a delightful pita pocket sandwich. If preferred, mix the cottage cheese with fruit and cinnamon for a sweeter taste.

Other healthy alternatives include egg-white omelets and sandwiches. For a sandwich, boil two eggs and discard one yolk. To reduce fat, mix with reduced-calorie mayonnaise and nonfat yogurt. Add zip and color with a pinch of dry mustard.

A wide-mouth vacuum bottle is a good investment for brown-bag meals. It helps to carry heated leftovers such as stew, pasta and soup. Advanced planning makes future meals easier, so prepare extra portions. Freeze extras in individual portions. Place a single serving in the refrigerator the night before use. In the morning, microwave the food and place it in the thermos for a hot lunch entrée.

Complete every lunch with plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. They provide essential vitamins without fat, adding up to good nutrition.

For more help with meals away from home, call the Heart Information Service and request free copies of the "Dining Out Guide" and "Brown Bag" brochures. The service can be reached by calling 45-HEART or toll-free 800-255-9919.

This tuna salad sandwich is a delicious example for a good lunch.

Tuna salad pita sandwiches

- 1 (6 1/2 oz.) can tuna in water, drained, rinsed
- 3 green onions with tops, finely chopped
- 2 tsp. finely chopped celery
- 2 tsp. finely chopped fresh parsley
- 1 medium carrot, shredded
- 1 small tomato, finely chopped
- 2 tsp. reduced-calorie mayonnaise
- 2 tsp. finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tsp. salsa or picante sauce
- Freshly ground black pepper to taste
- 3 whole wheat pitas (about 7 inches in diameter)

Accompaniments

- 6 lettuce leaves, rinsed, dried
- 1 medium tomato, sliced
- 6 fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1/2 cup alfalfa or bean sprouts, if desired
- 6 sprigs parsley

Combine tuna, onion, celery, parsley, carrot, chopped tomato, mayonnaise, green pepper, salsa and pepper. Mix well. Refrigerate at least 1 hour.

Cut each pita in half. Line each half with leaf of lettuce, slice of tomato, mushroom slices

Illinois Gov. James A. Thompson said that National customers "can expect an extraordinary bonus this week as Illinois products are highlighted. Consumers should look for the 'Illinois Products' logo. It's a quality guarantee that shoppers are selecting the very best."

Missouri Gov. John Ashcroft said that "by choosing American products, consumers can directly support the thousands of men and women who grow, process, warehouse and transport the quality products of this great agricultural state."

The sale at all 57 area National stores runs through Sunday (May 6).

and sprouts. Add tuna salad. Garnish with sprig of parsley.

Methodist Women to KC

Nameki United Methodist Women met recently for their April meeting with President Millie Clements offering the prayer.

Mary Benson read an Easter poem and the lesson, "The Gift of Hope," was given by Helen Bischoff assisted by Alma Cowan, Alta Stewart, Mary Bailey and Luan Briner.

All of the members related to some women who had influenced their lives. Closing the lesson was a poem, "Easter Parade," written by Ann Weams.

Several members will be attending the Methodist Assembly, which is held every four years, in Kansas City on May 5. Other activities discussed were: the Mother and Daughter Buffet, scheduled for May 14, cost is $2 for adults and 75 cents for children; and a Quilt Fair and Luncheon to be held June 16. Tickets are $1 to view the quilts and $2.75 for lunch. Members of the ZMB Circle also will sponsor a rummage sale on June 23.

The Least Coin reading, "Struggling With Hope," was given by Cowan. Hostesses Luckert and Bischoff served refreshments.

She discussed the value of trees, from beautification to shade to alleviation of global warming.

The pain of a heart attack begins in your chest. But it doesn't end there.

A heart attack may start with pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the middle of your chest. It can spread to your shoulders, neck or arms. Dizziness, fainting, sweating and shortness of breath may even occur. If you experience any of these symptoms for more than two minutes, call for emergency medical help immediately. The longer you wait, the more you risk dying. Which can be very painful for everyone who cares about you.

Garden Study Club announces awards

Programs for the coming year were discussed at the annual organizational meeting of the Garden Study Club held in April at the home of Jean Holder, 2853 Iowa St.

Twelve members answered roll call by responding to the question, "What flowers do you have blooming?" Tulips and hyacinths were the popular answers.

Mary Stomum, Garden Study president, reviewed the 38th annual meeting of District V Garden Clubs of Illinois and announced the winners in the district competition.

For horticulture, Clara Winter was awarded two first-place blue ribbons; Bonnie Rutkowski received one blue ribbon; Stomum earned two blue ribbons and one red ribbon; and Christine Hornberger received a blue ribbon. Helen Meyer also attended the event.

Garden Study's history book for 1989-90 received a blue ribbon and a 100 percent rating in District V, Stomum reported. She also accepted the Membership Extension Award for the club from the National Council of State Garden Clubs, signed by Dorothy Chamberlain, the state membership chairman.

Shirley Stallings and Bonnie Rutkowski gave reports on club business.

Among other items reviewed were plans for the annual meeting of the Garden Clubs of Illinois, Inc., scheduled for April at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort near Chicago, and a conference on solid waste management, co-sponsored by the state garden organization and the Shell Oil in Springfield held on April 20.

Members were reminded to keep collecting commemorative stamps for the IASS project.

Stomum also reviewed the club's activities during 1989-90. The main speaker was Frank Holdener of the Missouri Botanical Gardens. His subject was "Summer Bulbs."

A guest, Nancy Morgan, daughter of Ruth Polson, displayed a handmade wreath, explained how it was made and the cost of materials.

Other members attending were Christine Hornberger, Irene Doroughazi, Mary Kello, Catherine Kostoff, Helen Meyer and Marie Oetken.

The club will next meet at the home of Norma Crenshaw, 2024 McCasland Ave., Madison.

The point 1499¢ where many of today's cars run out of gas.

It happens so much sooner than you would think. At around 15,000 miles, the engines in many of today's cars start suffering from octane starvation. They simply lose their oomph. They get sluggish, unresponsive.

HAS IT HAPPENED TO YOU?

Sometimes it's hard to tell because it's a gradual process and different for every car. It can depend on the type of driving you do, the kind of engine your car has, and the gasoline you've been burning. There are, however, several signals your engine sends that can act as a warning.

KNOCK, KNOCK, WHO'S THERE?

One of the most noticeable signs is engine knock. You press down on your accelerator, and instead of a smooth purr, you hear a kup-kata-kup-kata coming from your engine. "Who's there," is an ineffective mixture of gasoline vapor and air that's simply not cooperating with your spark plugs. The mixture that provides the power to move your pistons up and down has been crippled by engine deposits. Only a portion of it is igniting... what's left holds back, then explodes in protest. That's what you hear. Even turning up the radio won't make it go away. But it's easily fixable.

KNOCK SENSORS HIDE THE PROBLEM, BUT DON'T SOLVE IT.

Many of today's engines are equipped with knock sensors that mechanically retard the spark so that knocking doesn't occur. But that really doesn't fix anything. Because the spark is retarded, acceleration wanes, power is lost. The only way to detect this phenomenon is to remember what happened when you pressed the accelerator to the floor when your car was brand new. If you have 15,000 miles on the odometer, and you feel a sluggishness that didn't occur in the earlier days of your car's life, you've got a problem. Again...easily solved.

THE KEY'S OFF, BUT THE CAR'S STILL RUNNING.

Engine run-on. Another sign of trouble. You turn off the ignition, but your engine keeps chugging along. Not quite as embarrassing as, say, an unexpected burp in church, but not exactly comforting either. What's happened is a bunch of carbon deposits have been building up in your cylinders during the first 15,000 miles of your engine's life. Even though your ignition is off, these nasty deposits retain engine heat and glow red hot to create a false spark that ignites the air/fuel mixture left in your cylinders. You're continuing to burn fuel, even though you're not going anywhere. It's easy to correct.

LOOK FOR THE SILVER LINING.

The solution to all these troublesome glitches exists today in a remarkable engine cleaning gasoline called Amoco Silver. Amoco Silver is the sensible remedy for problems caused by your engine's increased craving for octane. Amoco Silver is a step up from pure regular unleaded gasoline. Its higher octane can eliminate knock-run-on and bring back the power that was there when your car was brand new. And since your engine's octane appetite stabilizes at around 15,000 miles, it may be all you'll ever need to keep your car's engine running the way it was designed to run. Amoco Silver. It's that simple.

$100 FREE
AMOCO SILVER GASOLINE

Next time you purchase a minimum of eight gallons of Amoco Silver Lead-Free gasoline at the posted retail price, present this coupon and receive $1.00 worth of Amoco Silver gasoline on the spot. Offer valid only at participating Amoco dealers in the states of Kansas, Illinois and Missouri. Void if altered or reproduced. Limit one coupon per purchase. Redeemable only for Silver gasoline and at the time of purchase of original gallons, not for cash. Offer expires May 31, 1990.

'Musicales' to recall hoedowns

Old-time string music will greet visitors at the spring "Musicales," scheduled for 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Pierre Menard Home State Historic Site north of Chester.

"The Cash Rebates," an area three-person string band, will play hoedowns, waltzes, string rags, two-steps and other selections from earlier times. Music also will be provided on the home's piano.

Throughout the afternoon, visitors may sample baked goods cooked by volunteers in the Menard Home's 19th century adjoining kitchen. Tours of the home and sculpted herb gardens will be conducted, and plant starts will be available for sale to interested gardeners.

The spring "Musicales" is free and open to the public.

The Pierre Menard Home State Historic Site, administered by the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency, was built around 1890 and was the home of Illinois' first lieutenant governor. The home is furnished with many of the Menard family's personal possessions and includes an herb garden, smokehouse, springhouse and adjoining kitchen.

The Pierre Menard Home is six miles north of Chester. Motorists should take Illinois 3 and turn west on Fort Kaskaskia Road.

S Eyes semester switch

By John Milazzo

EDWARDSVILLE — Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville remains the only major state university in Illinois operating on the academic quarter system, but that may be changing.

In light of recruitment and transfer problems and out of current system, SUE President Earl Lazerson has suggested that the time has come for SUE to join the mainstream.

Lazerson's recommendation came in an April 13 memo to David Steinberg, president of the SUE Faculty Senate.

In the memo Lazerson pointed out that SUE has been 10 years since the system and its merits have been reviewed. "Much has occurred to warrant reconsideration of the matter," he wrote.

There is a strong academic and national trend to the semester calendar.

"Sometimes it is appropriate to be different and to use that as a means of distinguishing a university from all others. That does not seem to be the case here," Lazerson said.

Lazerson said the quarter system has increasingly worked a hardship on students wishing to transfer into and out of SUE and recommended a conversion to the semester system effective in the fall of 1992.

Such a target date would allow the university to take the necessary steps for the conversion prior to the next campus visit by representatives of the school's accreditation agency in 1993.

With a change, the academic year would include two 15-week semesters instead of three 10-week quarters.

Steinberg said Thursday that the issue was discussed at the April Senate Faculty meeting and will again be brought up at the May meeting before a vote is taken in June.

Steinberg said concerns expressed by faculty members include a potential jump in workload that may result in teachers having to pick up added classes to conform with the semester system.

Another problem Steinberg sees is a drop in the number of elective classes available to undergraduate students.

"Typically a baccalaureate system set up on semesters requires 120 to 128 hours, usually comprised of 40 courses, while under a quarter system there are 192 hours comprised of 48 courses," Steinberg said.

Another problem would be difficulties for students wanting a full academic load over summer sessions, which would last eight weeks instead of 10.

Among advantages to going to a semester system, according to Lazerson, are longer periods for student work with term projects, papers and other difficult material and lowered administrative costs associated with registration, records and advising.

Maternity leave policies becoming more important

By Dr. George D. Malkasian

During the coming decade, about two out of every three women will be in the work force, and more than one million of them will become pregnant during any given year.

Many of these women will take maternity leave then return to work within weeks or months of the baby's birth. The return may be part time or not at all.

With women playing a major role in the workplace, maternity policies, pregnancy-related disability and resumption of work are issues that will have an important impact on their employers and perhaps even the economy.

Women who become pregnant while they are working are faced with many important decisions, including how long they will continue to work, under what conditions they will continue working and how long to take leave before and after birth.

National policies vary widely in the United States, but only about 40 percent of U.S. employers provide a 6-week paid disability leave for childbirth. Women who work for organizations that do not provide these benefits must leave or volunteer to do, or take time off without pay.

There is no standard length of time a woman should remain on the job while pregnant. This decision depends on the type of job she has, how fit she is, and the medical conditions surrounding her pregnancy. If a woman has had miscarriages, premature births, or other problems, her doctor might recommend staying at home.

Jobs that involve exposure to toxic substances, anesthetics, or ionizing radiation pose risks for a pregnant woman. If your work brings you in contact with any of these substances, your employer or supervisor should recommend that you ask for a temporary assignment away from the dangerous area or stop working altogether.

Most women find that working through pregnancy provides a sense of purpose and personal satisfaction. Unless your doctor decides your work is too hazardous or you are at risk for certain problems, you probably won't have to vary your daily routine.

If you work while pregnant, be sure to eat a well-balanced lunch and take occasional rest breaks. Don't despair if some days you just can't seem to have your usual steam. In time, you'll be back with renewed energy and spirit.
